Future of Draft Still in Doubt

By LAWRENCE L. KNUTSON
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The future of the military draft remained in doubt today, less than a week before it is scheduled to expire, despite a rare Senate vote to prevent a filibuster against extending it.

Pleased with the addition of an amendment to the draft bill urging a complete U.S. withdrawal from Indochina, enough moderate doves joined production forces Wednesday to produce the required two-thirds majority in a 65-27 vote to limit debate.

The bill now is expected to pass the Senate but it must go to a House-Senate conference to work out differences, then be passed again by both houses in identical form before it is law.

Progress in Soviet, U.S. Space Talks

By PAUL RECER
AP Aerospace Writer

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — American and Soviet spacemen could link up in space within three to six years if discussions currently under way here are brought to fruition, it was learned Wednesday.

National Aeronautics and Space Administration officials announced that American and Soviet space experts discussing compatible spacecraft docking systems here are actively studying the possibility of testing the compatible system using existing spacecraft of the two nations.

A source indicated that this could mean a joint American-Soviet space flight as early as 1973 and certainly within the mid-70s.

The surprise announcement released Wednesday stated that the U.S. and Soviet delegations "discussed the possibility of future space flights which would test the requirements being developed for compatible docking systems."

Being Ornery, Contrary Now, Then Just Helps to Keep Us Human

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Jumping to conclusions: There is no real reason why we should always try to rid ourselves of unreasonable prejudices. Being ornery and contrary now and then is part of human nature and helps keep us human.

For example, I have spent all my life on the lam from lamb. I know it is unreasonable to flee lamb when so many people agree it is tender, tasty and nutritious, but any occasion on which I can evade eating lamb is a moral victory. To me lamb is still a mouthful of wool, fit only for women and children too small to defend themselves.

I feel the same way about eggplant. Whenever I hear the word, I get a mental image of a green hen turning into a half-price tomato.

Some of the best customers of door-to-door salesmen are recently retired men. They are so grateful to have somebody to talk to beside their wives that they usually buy something after listening to the sales spiel.

Never lend money to a guy who half the time wears one of his socks inside out. You can't trust anyone who is that badly organized.

Unhappiness is what a wife feels when her husband feels happy, and she can't for the life of her figure out the reason why.

A SLIGHT CASE OF SPECIAL PLEADING seems to be in the making in this confrontation between McCook, Neb., patrolman Lauren McConnell and one "Cookie," a bulldog, also of McCook, whose owner and chauffeur is Mrs. William Stewart. For the record, neither Mrs. Stewart nor "Cookie" lost a license.

A Tired Dale Bumpers to Cut Down on His Speaking Appearances

By ROBERT SHAW
Associated Press Writer

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Weary from a demanding speaking schedule that has carried him to all parts of the state, Gov. Dale Bumpers plans to cut down on his appearances beginning next month.

"There has been no governor more overexposed than I have been and frankly I'm willing to draw in my horns," he said in an interview.

"We simply had to call a halt," he said. Bumpers committed himself to a heavy schedule after his victory over Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller in the Nov. 3 general election.

"Right after the election we started getting anywhere from 100 to 200 invitations a week," he said. "I was trying to accept all of them. I felt that because I had won such an overwhelming victory that I should go back into those communities in which I had campaigned and let them know I was still concerned about them."

"The first thing you know, we had our schedule almost completely full through June."

He said he soon realized that "physically as well as mentally I could not function properly" and stay on the schedule he was keeping. So, he has started declining invitations after July 5.

Says Policy Same Under 4 Presidents

By RICHARD SOUDREAU
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Daniel Ellsberg says the notion the secret Pentagon war study he reportedly leaked was designed to embarrass President Lyndon B. Johnson "will be quickly allayed" as the full document is made public.

Ellsberg, in his first public statement since publication of the study began, told Walter Cronkite in an interview broadcast Wednesday by CBS-TV the entire 47-volume history reveals a "sameness of policy throughout four administrations."

"The real lessons," he said, "really come from seeing the whole sweep of the history. There has never been any year when there would have been a war in Indochina without American money fueling it."

Ellsberg, former State Department and Pentagon analyst who helped assemble part of the study, was identified by a former New York Times reporter as the person who gave a copy of the secret document to the Times.

Cronkite reportedly interviewed Ellsberg in a private home in the Boston area and transmitted the film to CBS in New York through WHDH-TV, the network's Boston affiliate.

"It's really difficult to read those studies from the beginning and consecutively, and conclude that any one of those administrations would have behaved very differently than Lyndon Johnson did," Ellsberg said.

The study, which also covers the administration of Harry S. Truman and Dwight D. Eisenhower, "takes the issue out of politics," Ellsberg said, "and raises much more questions of whether we have been playing follow-the-leader a little too long."

He said the entire study of how the United States became more and more deeply involved in the Indochina war should be made public now rather than after American withdrawal because the threat of escalation is still U.S. policy, as it was in 1964 when Johnson planned to bomb the North.

Reward for Fouke Monster

TEXARKANA, Ark. (AP) — A Texarkana man has offered a $200 reward for the Fouke "monster."

Raymond Scoggins, a former resident of Fouke, has offered the reward if the "Monster" is brought in alive.

"I believe in the monster. I want to preserve it in a zoo, or wherever it belongs," Scoggins said. "I want to discourage the killing of it."

Scoggins said that the authenticity of the monster will have to be verified by three city officials. The deadline for the reward is Dec. 31.

Congress Gets Major Constitutional Data With No Promise

By JIM ADAMS
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon turned the top secret Pentagon study on Vietnam over to Congress with leaders' hopes, but no promises, that more of it won't be leaked to the public.

In a scramble for access to the papers, Rep. John E. Moss, D-Calif., planned to press again for a House subcommittee vote today on demanding its own copy of the study for current hearings on security classification. The matter was postponed Wednesday by a 5-4 vote.

Leaders of both the House and Senate promised Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird Wednesday the documents would be kept under lock and key, though all 534 senators and House members will be able to read and study them.

Laird, however, got no promises that congressmen will not leak it.

"He was given no such assurances," said Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield.

The White House said the President decided to give Congress the study because unauthorized newspaper publication of portions would require Congress to make judgments "on the basis of incomplete data which could give a distorted impression of the report's contents."

Along with the 47-volume "History of U.S. Decision Making on Vietnam Policy," the President released to Congress a secret 1965 study of the Gulf of Tonkin incident that led to U.S. combat involvement in Vietnam.

Congressional leaders told Laird the ground rules will be the same in both the House and Senate: any congressman will be able to read the study behind closed doors, but can take no copies or even notes out of the room.

Speaker Carl Albert said the House copy will go to the Armed Services committee, which routinely keeps secret defense information and has rarely had any leaks.

Mansfield, heading off a jurisdictional fight between the Senate Foreign Relations and Armed Services committees, said the Senate copy will be kept in the Secretary of the Senate's office.

The Senate Foreign Relations Committee unanimously voted Wednesday to launch an investigation of U.S. involvement in Indochina, presumably drawing on information in the Pentagon study.

Typical Weather to Continue

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Typical early summertime weather continues to dominate the Arkansas forecast, as it has for the past week. Partly cloudy skies, warm to hot days and a 20 per cent chance of afternoon and evening thunderstorms are predicted.

By Saturday, temperatures should edge upward slightly, with highs expected to reach the mid 90s to low 100s. Otherwise, little change in the forecast is in sight.

Afternoon heating Wednesday produced scattered thunderstorm activity throughout the state, with the most numerous activity in southern portions. A thunderstorm at El Dorado at mid-afternoon produced hail and wind gusts of 41 miles per hour. However, the flight station measured only .29 of an inch of rainfall with the storm.

The National Weather Service noted this week that virtually the western half of Arkansas is now in a moderate stage of drought, and the extreme southwest corner is in a severe drought. The eastern portion has fared well, since more general rainfall has been reported in the east during the past several weeks.

Major Constitutional Legal Battle Between Government and Press May End Drive to Save Law

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A major constitutional legal battle over government secrecy and freedom of the press headed to the U.S. Supreme Court today after appellate rulings in government suits against The New York Times and The Washington Post over articles based on classified Pentagon Papers.

As a Los Angeles federal grand jury began an investigation into how the top secret Pentagon study of U.S. involvement in the Vietnam war was leaked, three other news organizations today printed articles they said were based at least in part on the 47-volume report.

An appeals court in Washington ruled Wednesday the Post could resume publication of its suspended series after 6 p.m. Friday. A similar court in New York said the Times could also resume but could not use any material the government considered confidential.

Dinh Thinks Enemy Will Take Over

DA NANG, Vietnam (AP) —

Pvt. Nguyen Huu Dinh predicts defeat for the South Vietnamese army as he scavenges discarded ammunition at a U.S. Marine garbage dump near Marble Mountain.

"When the Americans leave, the Communists will take over," he mutters. "We cannot stop them. Why are the Americans leaving?"

Brig. Gen. Vu Van Giai also has qualms as he surveys enemy infiltration routes in the mist-shrouded A Shau Valley from a hilltop called Firebase Holcomb.

"I need more B52 strikes, more helicopter support, more artillery, more people," he complains. "Yet you Americans want to take your GIs home." Privates and generals alike feel uneasy in the 1st Military Region, the five northern provinces colloquially known as Eye-for-the-Roman I-Corps. No one likes sitting on a powder keg the size of Maryland.

Accelerated U.S. troop withdrawals, upcoming government elections, the end of the monsoon and 207 miles of common border with North Vietnam and enemy-controlled southern Laos made Eye Corps the likeliest target of a dry season offensive.

Base Overrun, 10 Americans Are Missing

SAIGON (AP) — North Vietnamese troops overran a South Vietnamese artillery base just below the demilitarized zone and turned its guns on the fleeing defenders, reliable informant reported today.

Less than 10 American advisers and GIs maintaining electronic equipment on the base were said to be unaccounted for.

South Vietnamese headquarters refused to confirm the retreat from Fire Base Fuller, on a hilltop four miles south of the DMZ. But a spokesman, Lt. Col. Le Trung Hien, said there were unconfirmed reports that the 500 South Vietnamese at the base had "moved off the hill and are fighting enemy troops around it."

Hien said the enemy pounded the base with 800 mortar shells in less than two hours Wednesday, the heaviest shelling of any fixed installation this year. But he said casualties were "light."

Sources in the field reported that a large enemy force made a ground assault after the shelling. These informants said the South Vietnamese garrison requested permission to abandon the base, but this was refused. Fighting continued, and the South Vietnamese were driven out of the base Wednesday night, despite support from neighboring artillery, American B52 bombers and helicopter gunships.

Fuller has been under mounting North Vietnamese pressure since last Saturday, receiving daily bombardments of up to 500 rounds.

It is one of a string of South Vietnamese artillery bases in the northwest corner of Quang Tri province. They are the first line of defense below the DMZ and in the rugged mountains along the Laotian border.

Hien reported several of these bases were hit in addition to Fuller. Fire Base Sarge, six miles to the southwest, received 30 mortar rounds. Two South Vietnamese Marine positions just north of Sarge were hit by 50 rounds, and Camp Carol, a regimental headquarters six miles south of Fuller, was hit by eight 122mm rockets.

U.S. B52s flew four bombing strikes against the area around Fuller, trying to cripple an enemy force estimated at about 6,000 men who reportedly moved into the sector last month. Farther south, a mortar attack partially destroyed a South Vietnamese ammunition dump at the coastal city of Qui Nhon, 275 miles northeast of Saigon.

It was the second attack on that ammunition dump this year.

RUSSELLVILLE, Ark. (AP) — Pros. Atty. Alex G. Streett of Russellville has asked that Circuit Judge Russell C. Roberts name a special judge to empanel and charge a Pope County Grand Jury to investigate the fee system under Roberts.

The request was made in a petition filed in Circuit Court here late Tuesday.

The state Supreme Court ruled Monday that C. R. George of Danville could not preside as a special judge. The ruling against George was sought by Streett, who contended his election by attorneys in the 5th Judicial Circuit was illegal.

PeaceTalkers Blame All on Nixon

PARIS (AP) — North Vietnam's spokesman at the Paris peace talks accused President Nixon today of being "directly implicated" in the unleashing of the American war in Vietnam.

Xuan Thuy, Hanoi's chief delegate, told newsmen at the start of the 118th weekly session of the talks that Nixon's role in the early stages of the war emerged from the secret Pentagon papers published by The New York Times and other American newspapers.

Thuy said the Pentagon report was "only part of the truth," but it was enough to show that "President Nixon himself was directly implicated in the process of American aggression from its very beginning."

As he did last week, Thuy made no mention of the revelations about the role of the Kennedy and Johnson administrations in the war.

Le Duc Tho, a high-ranking member of the North Vietnamese regime, was arriving later today to confer with Thuy and his delegation. Tho was last in Paris in April 1970, and his return may indicate some movement in the long-deadlocked talks following the U.S. Senate vote calling for total American withdrawal from Vietnam within nine months if all American prisoners are released.

U.S. Ambassador David K. E. Bruce deplored the policies over the origins of the war, saying:

"It is a waste of time ... to engage in unproductive debate about the origins of the conflict. We do not accept your distorted version of history as the basis for negotiations here, nor do we accept the preconditions which you say we must fulfill before negotiations can begin."

Bruce reiterated the five basic American proposals for a peace settlement, and said they all remain open to discussion. They are a standstill cease-fire throughout Indochina, a peace conference including all nations concerned in the conflict, an agreed timetable for complete American and North Vietnamese troop withdrawals, a political settlement that "meets the aspirations of all South Vietnamese," and the immediate and unconditional release of all prisoners of war.

Dainis Removed From Academy

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP) — Police Chief Hollis Spencer of Fayetteville said Wednesday that a complaint from members of the Arkansas Police Chiefs Association led to the removal of Charles U. Dainis, 23, from the Arkansas Law Enforcement Training Academy at Camden.

Little Rock Police Chief Gayle Weeks was among those protesting.

Dainis, a former state Alcoholic Beverage Control Department agent, had been sent to the academy to work out a four-month sentence for conviction of having hashish for sale.

Dainis has been transferred to the Pulaski County Penal Farm to continue serving his sentence there.

Spencer, who is chairman of the Law Enforcement Training Academy Commission, said members of the association had been concerned that having Dainis at the training school was detrimental and gave the school a bad name. He said the chiefs felt he represented a police officer that "had gone bad."

might be conducted between spacecraft of the Apollo and Salyut station types and between spacecraft of the Soyuz and Skylab station types. It was agreed that the technical and economic implications of these possibilities should be studied by the two sides," the announcement said.

Apollo is the spacecraft system now being used by America to explore the moon. Skylab is an orbiting space station which NASA plans to launch in 1973. Salyut is a Russian orbiting space station now flying and manned by three cosmonauts. Soyuz is the Soviet command ship type of craft used to ferry men to and from the Salyut.

Observers said that docking mechanisms now on these types of spacecraft possibly could be modified so that they could be linked in space. If such modification is carried out, the two countries could dock spacecraft in orbit much earlier than if totally new docking systems had to be developed.

the corps commander, feels the crunch will come in July and August. His generals and their U.S. advisers all agree on what to expect:

—Major battles involving thousands of troops in the mountainous border regions near Laos, with heavy enemy pressure on the first line of defense, a string of South Vietnamese artillery bases guarding traditional infiltration routes.

—Stepped-up shellings of cities and towns in the coastal lowlands, with sporadic forays by enemy units no larger than company size.

—Continuation of rocket attacks on Da Nang, which has been hit eight times since April 26.

—Shellings and harassing attacks against firebases along the demilitarized zone, but no large incursions across the buffer strip dividing North and South Vietnam.

—Increased terrorism and Viet Cong political activity in the villages to prevent people from voting in the lower house election Aug. 29 and the presidential election Oct. 3.

Lam is convinced the Laotian invasion which he commanded earlier this year, known as Lam Son 719, so disrupted North Vietnamese supply lines that the enemy will be able to conduct only big-unit actions in the unpopulated border regions.

His American military advisers generally agree. Intelligence officers say enemy strength in Eyer Corps is at a peak of about 45,000 combat troops, consisting of 30,000 North Vietnamese regulars and about 15,000 in Viet Cong units.

Local guerrillas and Viet Cong political cadres add another 20,000 to 35,000 to this total.

In addition, says Lam, Hanoi has two to three reserve divisions just across the DMZ, a fourth combat division in Laos, and about 30,000 "transportation troops" along the Ho Chi Minh trail.

Conservatives Want Nixon to Bow Out

By CARL P. LEUBSDORF
AP Political Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — A leading conservative Republican is telling her supporters a poll shows President Nixon can't be re-elected in 1972 and should bow out in favor of California Gov. Ronald Reagan.

Mrs. Phyllis Schlafly, a biographer of 1964 GOP nominee Barry Goldwater, says in her June newsletter a poll she took indicates "grassroots Republicans believe Nixon is certain to lose the next election."

The newsletter also says that, if Nixon bows out, Reagan would be an overwhelming favorite of GOP conservatives with Vice President Spiro T. Agnew a weak second. It adds that, if Nixon runs, 72 per cent of those polled want him to keep Agnew on the ticket.

Recent elections in California, Florida and Missouri are cited as evidence conservative Republicans might back a Democrat in 1972 rather than a Republican they dislike.

Mrs. Schlafly, whose own effort to win election to the House from a downstate Illinois district was unsuccessful. Says her poll is "the most comprehensive and scientific in-depth survey of grass-roots Republican opinion ever taken."

It was based on home interviews with 3,423 people, a sample twice as large as that used in the Harris and Gallup polls.

It shows that 32 per cent of those who said they voted for Nixon in 1968 would not again vote for him, even if the only alternatives are voting for Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine or Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace, or staying home.

Twenty-five per cent of the 1968 Nixon voters said they made a mistake. And 37 per cent of those in the poll said they found practically no difference between the Nixon administration and one that might have been headed by defeated 1968 Democratic presidential nominee Hubert H. Humphrey.

The people surveyed, Mrs. Schlafly said, "are the people who elected President Nixon in 1968 and without whom Nixon cannot hope to be reelected in 1972."

The poll showed Republicans think Nixon would carry or is leading in only 13 states that have 83 electoral votes, and won't carry or is trailing in 32 states with 416 electoral votes.

Seven states with 39 electoral votes were rated tossups. A total of 270 electoral votes are required to win.

Without Nixon in the race, the poll showed 60 per cent favor Reagan and 23 per cent Agnew.

tended was dangerous to national security pending a lower court review of those documents.

The Justice Department, which has sought injunctions against the Times, Post and the Boston Globe on the ground that publication of the papers threatened national security, said it would appeal the Washington ruling to the Supreme Court. The Times said it would appeal the New York ruling.

President Nixon said Wednesday that he would make available to Congress the complete 7,000-page study but that the document would remain top secret pending a review of that classification by the executive branch.

Meanwhile, Knight Newspapers Inc., which publishes 11 newspapers, and the Los Angeles Times today printed articles they said were based on the documents. The Chicago Sun-Times also ran stories it said were drawn from the secret study and from "government documents."

In Los Angeles, a U.S. District Court granted immunity to two persons subpoenaed to testify before a grand jury probing what a Justice Department spokesman called possible violations of national security laws.

Television and Radio

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

AP Television-Radio Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Alcoholism seems to have been pushed to the back of a high television shelf since the dramatic emergence of the problem of widespread narcotics addiction.

ABC sought Wednesday night—regrettably without much originality—to return the spotlight to what narrator Frank Reynolds called the nation's number one health problem.

Many of statistics were tossed into the hour. There are an estimated nine million alcoholics in the nation; 26,000 died last year in accidents related to excessive drinking; there are probably two or three alcoholics in every city block, most of them undiscovered and untreated.

Although much has been written and spoken about what one medical specialist called "a chronic disease," there is still a social stigma connected with it, with the result that vast numbers of sufferers are never revealed and, consequently, fail to receive help and treatment in time.

The alcoholic and his problem to himself, family and employer, have been under study for almost half a century. While the cause of this type of addiction is still unknown, it can be arrested, but only by the victim himself.

ABC covered a lot of familiar territory in TV's standard documentary form. There was the "non-drinking alcoholic"—a nurse—describing her days as an "obsessive, compulsive drinker" to a group therapy gathering of fellow sufferers. There were the shots taken in a hospital showing older men, some derelicts from the nation's skid rows, whose health and often mental capacity had been destroyed by alcohol.

CBS and Walter Cronkite achieved an exclusive interview with the elusive Daniel Ellsberg, Massachusetts Institute of Technology research expert widely credited with turning over the so-called "Pentagon papers" to journalistic sources.

Ellsberg, in a taped interview at an undisclosed location, refused to talk about his own part, if any, in starting the battle between government and press.

He spoke long and soberly about his concern about Vietnam and about his own feeling of American leaders' responsibilities and the public's right to know.

Portions were shown on the early evening news program and in greater detail during a hastily scheduled half-hour special in the late evening.

Coming, Going

HEAP MUCH WORK FOR NO EXTRA PAY

Dear Helen:

I'm a fed up baby sitter.

Today I started to dress one of the boys and found no shirt with more than two buttons on it. Socks? Forget 'em! Pants need mending. There's no elastic in the underpants.

And what really gets me is that when I come to work in the morning, even though the baby has been up for two hours, she still has her nighttime wet diaper on!

The mother says, "You don't know how hard it is, being a mother with a family!" Considering that I do her washing, clean up the house, iron, and even sew on buttons, etc., all for "sitter's pay," I don't feel very sorry for her.

Why don't I quit if I don't like it? Because I need the money for college, and a 17-year-old girl can't get regular jobs.

Why do I do the extras if I don't get paid for them? Because I can't stand the mess and I like the little kids.

But I'll be leaving the minute I find another job, and so will all my baby-sitting friends. We're tired of taking over more and more work without even a "tip." One of these days, working wives will have to stay home because there won't be any more suckers. —SOURD SITTER

Dear Sitter:

Working wives who don't pay extra for housecleaning, mending, ironing, etc. deserve to be sitters. Ignore these chores for a week and I think your employer will get the message. —H.

Dear Helen:

My friends and I are having trouble communicating with our boy friends who have just come back from Vietnam. They were great guys when they left, but now they don't care about anything or anybody.

They wear sloppy clothes, drink and smoke too much, cut us down in every sentence. They're nervous and irritable, and always looking for dangerous kinds of excitement. And they can't say enough mean things about women.

They say we should be glad they didn't come back messed up with heroin, but we think they're pretty messed up anyway. Will they get over it or does war do this to people? THREE GIRLS FROM SAN FRANCISCO

Dear Girls:

Yes, war does this to people, but most fellows "come down" in a few months.

The following letter may help you understand how they fell, and teach you the value of patience:

Dear Helen:

I am deeply troubled yet searching for an answer to my problem.

Ever since I left the armed forces I have felt very inhibited because I can not release my normal competitive urges without drinking. Over there, I fought to survive. But here I drink to survive.

Lately, like many veterans, I have been called a war criminal because I was in the Service. This makes me feel hostile, then guilty, and I drink even more. I realize I am not a criminal because I served my country, but I feel hated and ashamed and I want to either fight or hide. —T.Y.S.

Dear T.:

No war in history has created such great problems among returning veterans—the Vietnam conflict has crippled thousands of minds as well as bodies—and not just with drugs.

You need psychotherapy, TYS, and I think the Government should stand the bill, for mental rehabilitation is as necessary as the physical kind. —H.

This column is dedicated to family living, so if you're having kid trouble or just plain trouble; let Helen help YOU. She will also welcome your own amusing experiences. Address Helen Bottel in care of Hope Star.

Must Lose Weight or Go to Jail

By STRATTON L. DOUTHAT

Associated Press Writer
MIAMI (AP) — Mary Louise Peterson must shed 60 pounds in the next five months or go to jail for the next three years.

The deadline diet was imposed on the 38-year-old mother of six after she was found guilty of disorderly conduct and resisting police without violence. Criminal Court Judge Murray Goodman made the weight loss mandatory as a term of her three-year probation.

"Her attorney said she was on welfare and was too overweight to hold down a job," Goodman said. "If I put her in jail or fine her, I just penalize the children."

At the time of her May 24 trial, Mrs. Peterson tipped the scales at 315. Tuesday, she said she was down to 310.

"I'm on a strict protein diet," she said. "It's not easy to lose weight, but then my doctor said it wouldn't be. The judge told me I had to lose three pounds a week until I got down to 250. I'm going to lose more than that, I'm not going to stop until I get down to 200."

Mrs. Peterson, who is 6 feet tall, said she weighed 138 when she was married, nearly 20 years ago, but had gained steadily over the years. "It sort of creeps up on you," she said.

Mrs. Peterson must make periodic visits to her probation officer to show she is complying with the terms of her sentence. She also plans to begin attending a Miami weight reducing salon, which offered her a free membership.

"When I sentenced her," Judge Goldman said, "she told me, 'Good, now I'll finally lose some weight.' I hope she does ... for her sake."

Philadelphia 4-0 Over Cincinnati

By BRUCE LOWITT
Associated Press Sports Writer

Seven years ago Rick Wise watched Jim Bunning pitch a perfect game, then went out and recorded his first major league victory. On Wednesday night, Wise came within one batter of duplicating Bunning's incredible feat.

"I was well aware of the situation all the way," Wise said after he fired a no-hitter against the Cincinnati Reds—the second in three weeks suffered by the beleaguered National League Champions—and led the 4-0 triumph with a pair of home runs.

Wise faced just one batter more than the minimum 27, retiring the first 16 he faced, surrendering a one-out walk to Dave Concepcion in the sixth, then settling down the remaining 11 Reds.

"The crowd really encouraged me," Wise said of the 13,329 Cincinnati fans who began rotting loudly for him in the seventh inning and, by the ninth, were booing every ball and cheering every strike.

Wednesday night's victory was his 66th triumph for the Phils and his eighth in 12 decisions this year.

In other National League night action, Pittsburgh whipped the Mets 6-2, Montreal clipped Atlanta 6-3, St. Louis topped Los Angeles 3-1 in 10 innings, San Francisco flipped the Cubs 5-2 in an afternoon game and, in a two-night doubleheader, San Diego edged Houston 3-2 in a 12-inning opener, then made it a sweep with a 4-3 nightcap triumph.

In the American League Boston squeezed by Cleveland 2-1 and the Chicago White Sox bombed Kansas City 12-3 in day games. Milwaukee split a twin-bill with California, winning 6-0 then losing 9-5 and, in night action, Oakland shelled Minnesota 8-3, Baltimore topped Washington 7-5 and the New York Yankees beat Detroit 6-5 in 13 innings.

Roger Freed's second-inning grounder gave Wise the only run he needed, driving in Joe Lis who had been hit by a pitch and moved to third on Willie Montanez' double.

Then, in the fifth, Wise followed Freed's double off loser Ross Grimsley with a homer over the left field fence. And he led off the eighth with his fourth of the year and ninth of his career.

"I've always prided myself as a hitter," Wise understated. Then, getting back to his pitching, he admitted: "I wasn't feeling good when I warmed up." But after changing sweatshirts three times in the hot, humid night, then discarding them completely after the sixth inning, "I started feeling stronger."

The Pirates, regaining their 4½ game lead over New York in the National League East, were paced by Willie Stargell's three-run homer in the first inning and RBI double in the second. His 26 homers and 72 RBI lead the majors. Cleon Jones had a homer for the Mets.

Rusty Staub led the Expos' triumph with two singles that knocked in three runs and Bob Bailey chipped in with his eighth homer while Darrell Evans drilled a two-run shot for the Braves.

The Cardinals, limited to one hit through seven innings by Dodgers' starter Don Sutton, tied the game 1-1 in the eighth, then won it in the 10th on run-scoring singles by Lou Brock and Joe Torre off reliever Jim

Stillwagon Playing for Toronto

By DENNE H. FREEMAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

LUBBOCK, Tex. (AP) — Jim Stillwagon has had a taste of professional football and the Outland Trophy winner from Ohio State says, "It sinks in real quick that there's no more rah-rah scarlet and gray."

Stillwagon has been scrapping for a first string job on the Toronto Argonauts of the Canadian Football League.

"There were more than 50 American boys trying for a place on the club and they can keep only 14," Stillwagon says. "The competition is really something. It's the most pressure I've ever felt and I have a no-cut contract. But I don't want something just handed to me."

The club, obviously pleased with Stillwagon at defensive tackle and linebacker, sent him to Lubbock to play for the East in Saturday's 11th annual All America Coaches Games.

"They felt I should come since (quarterback) Joe Theismann (of Notre Dame) is in such a close fight with Greg Morton for the No. 1 quarterback job at Toronto," Stillwagon says. "Remember, our season starts in about 10 days. It's a shame Theismann couldn't play against (West quarterback) Jim Plunkett of Stanford."

Stillwagon arrived Wednesday and stepped off the plane into the 90-degree Texas heat. Informed he had just missed practice, Stillwagon said, "That's one way to get out of those two-a-days."

He was a fifth round choice of Green Bay of the National Football League but the Packers apparently didn't go strong for him because he stands only 6 feet and weighs but 225. The Toronto offer was much sweeter, including a two-year, no-cut contract.

"Some players are afraid of going to Canada and being forgotten by the American football fans," Stillwagon says. "But I understand some games will be televised back to the states this year. I figure if I play well the word will get out. Then maybe I can get a contract I can live with someday in the NFL."

Stillwagon says there's no problem adjusting to Canadian football even though the field's wider and each side uses 12 players.

"It's still nose to nose football although it takes a little longer to run somebody out of bounds," he says.

Stillwagon is one of East coach Charlie McClendon's prime hopes in shutting down the West's high-powered offense which features Plunkett, the Heisman Trophy winner.

West Coach Bob Devaney praised both Plunkett and Southern Methodist's Chuck Hixon in Wednesday's workout.

"Both are getting that timing down," Devaney said. A crowd of some 45,000 is expected in Jones Stadium for the 7:30 p.m. CDT kickoff that will be televised nationally on ABC.

NEW YORK (AP) — Herve Filion has taken a 34-race lead over William Gilmour for most victories in harness racing. The latest figures from the U.S. Trotting Association today show Filion with 177 winners, through June 21, to 143 for Gilmour.

during the 150-mile grid for a combined 39.4 seconds. Richard Petty of Randleman, N.C., auto racing's first millionaire driver, was making a strong bid to halt Allison's amazing win streak at four until he went into the pits after 43 laps.

This was all the opportunity Allison needed. He sped past Petty and relinquished the lead for only nine of the remaining 157 laps.

James Hylton of Inman, S.C., took over the lead on the 147th lap when Allison went into the pits. But Allison's crew had his 1971 Dodge back on the track in 24.9 seconds, and he regained the lead for keeps on the 157th circuit. Hylton finished second.

Allison picked up the $1,700 winner's check, but possibly even more important were the 100 points he was awarded in the race for the Winston Cup.

This moved Allison's total for the year to 1,908.

Hylton collected $1,200 for his second place finish and Walter Ballard of Houston, behind the wheel of a 1971 Ford, pocketed $900.

Boog Powell and Blue Moon Odom are back on the ball ... and the Chicago White Sox are all over it.

Powell cracked two home runs and a single Wednesday night, pacing the Baltimore Orioles to a 7-5 victory and finally bringing his batting average over the .200 mark.

Odom, the Oakland blazer who missed the first month of the season following elbow surgery, shut out Minnesota for 7 2-3 innings and beat the Twins 8-3 with relief help in the ninth to square his pitching record at 3-3.

And, in an afternoon game, the White Sox continued to apply their newfound sock, walloping Kansas City 12-3 for their fourth straight triumph and a 46-run total during the winning streak.

Elsewhere in the American League, the New York Yankees nipped Detroit 6-5 on Gene Michael's 13th inning homer; Boston edged Cleveland 2-1 on a homer by Joe Lahoud and Milwaukee split a doubleheader with California, winning 6-0 and then bowing 9-5.

In National League play, Philadelphia downed Cincinnati 4-0 on Rick Wise's no-hitter; Pittsburgh bounced the New York Mets 6-2; San Francisco beat the Chicago Cubs 5-2; Montreal topped Atlanta 6-3; St. Louis took Los Angeles 3-1 in 10 innings and San Diego swept a pair from Houston 2-3

Basketball Is Returning to Houston

BOSTON (AP) — Pro basketball is returning to Houston for another try—and this time it will have hometown hero Elvin Hayes going for it.

The Big E. and the rest of the San Diego Rockets are now the Houston Rockets via sale of the franchise Wednesday night to a group which will operate it in the Texas city beginning right away.

Announcement of the shift was made by NBA Commissioner Walter Kennedy at a hastily called news conference during the league's annual board of governors' meetings. He said the sale price was $5.6 million.

Houston's first experience with a pro basketball team was a failure, with the American Basketball Association's Mavericks operating there two seasons from 1967-69 before moving out and becoming the Carolina Cougars.

This time, however, there will be the added attraction of Hayes, who led the University of Houston to basketball prominence, including a nationally televised upset of the Lew Alcindor-led UCLA juggernaut, and has continued his stardom through three pro seasons with the Rockets.

Kennedy said the NBA had been eyeing Houston as a potential franchise site in any event, and was thus in a position to act quickly when the San Diego sale proposal was put before the board.

Kennedy said the Houston group is headed by Wayne Duddleston, a real estate broker, and Billy Goldberg, a banker. He said Bob Britebart, the principle owner of the San Diego franchise, would be part of the new ownership.

The commissioner said General Manager Pete Newell and the team's new coach, Tex Win-ing, would go with the club to Houston. He said the club would retain its nickname of the Rockets and would remain in the league's Pacific Division. Kennedy said the Rockets will play most of their games in the Hofheinz Pavilion, a new arena on the University of Houston campus which was opened last year with a seating capacity of 11,500 and room to expand. He said a few games would be played in the astro-

dom. "It's a lot of nonsense about not talking about it," said catcher Tim McCarver. "We discussed it openly in the dugout. I talked about it every inning with Bob Doyle. I even said a few things about it to Lucchesi but he didn't answer."

"I didn't move for about five innings and I'll admit it," said Lucchesi. "I'm superstitious!"

"All I could say, and I must have said it 50 or 100 times, 'come on Rick.' I figured the man upstairs was helping him but he's a real nonchalant guy. He's a real good thrower. I've seen him throw harder but he's really maturing. He's my most consistent pitcher."

"This has to be the biggest thrill of my life," said Wise (8-4). He also blasted two home runs bringing in three of the four runs.

"I feel this is my second no-hitter," said the 195, 6-foot-2 native of Jackson, Mich. He said his one-hitter against the Dodgers in Los Angeles, Aug. 8, 1968, should have been the first. He complained that an official scorer gave Jeff Torberg a hit when Orlando Penna bobbled a grounder in the third inning.

Rick Wise Pitches No Hitter

CINCINNATI (AP) — Every body in the Philadelphia Phillies dugout freely talked about it as Rick Wise pitched a no-hitter against the Cincinnati Reds Wednesday night 4-0, except manager Frank Lucchesi.

Things Are Brighter for Donohue

By BLOYS BRITT
AP Auto Racing Writer

MOUNT POCONO, Pa. (AP) — Moon-faced Mark Donohue is smiling again.

He went out in the cool of the afternoon Wednesday and whizzed around the new Pocono International Raceway at a shade above 172 miles per hour.

The speed was the fastest recorded during five days of practice for the July 3 Schaefer 500 mile race, but for Donohue it ended days of frustration that began several weeks ago at Indianapolis.

It had taken the 32-year-old Brown University alumnus two days to get his Roger Penske-McLaren racer up to speed. And, as one trackside observer put it, it was one of the few times in the illustrious Penske-Donohue association that the team wasn't ready to race when it arrived at the track.

The reasons were numerous. For one thing, the Sunoco-Blue McLaren-Offy was demolished in a wreck during the May 29 Indianapolis 500—after Donohue had led that $1 million classic for 62 laps and appeared en route to an easy victory.

The car had to be rebuilt for the $400,000 Pocono race at a cost of more than $50,000.

In between Donohue lost two straight Trans-Am races in his Penske Javelin, and was forced out of the Lemans 24-hour race after three hours when the engine failed in his Penske Ferrari. He was running second at the time.

New Yorker Pete Revson, who beat Donohue for the pole at Indy, was the first driver to break the 170 m.p.h. barrier at Pocono. The team McLaren driver was clocked at 170.3 during a late afternoon run Wednesday.

Several top speedsters flirted with the 170 barrier Wednesday, among them Joe Leonard, his teammate, two-mile Indy winner Al Unser, and the veteran A.J. Foyt.

Al Unser had recorded a lap at 169.2 while Leonard and Foyt both were in the 168-plus range. Two days of practice remain before time trials begin at 10 a.m. Saturday to fill a 33-car field for the Schaefer 500.

Trevino Could Earn $1 Million

CLEVELAND (AP) — "I want to win a million dollars in prize money."

Lee Trevino, admittedly still leg-weary after his playoff victory over Jack Nicklaus in the United States Open Golf championship, was talking about his long-range goals today before teeing off in the first round of the $150,000 Cleveland Open.

"That's something I'd really like to do," the two-time Open champion said.

"I know it sounds like a high ambition, but I think I can do it. Of course, the way prize money is going now, what with the big purses, it is a record that might not stand long—lots of players might do it, some before me."

"But I think that would be a real accomplishment."

Trevino, the favorite for the $30,000 first prize here, is rapidly closing in on that goal.

He's the leading money winner this season at $165,110, and has moved into tenth place on the all-time money list with career earnings of $577,997.

And he has reached that figure in only five years on the pro tour. All the players ahead of him—and all are still active—have been playing at least twice that long.

Arnold Palmer, Nicklaus and Billy Casper top the list, all at more than $1 million. The others, in order, are Julius Boros, Gary Player, Gene Littler, Frank Beard, Doug Sanders and Bruce Crampton.

Trevino very easily could get another record this season. If he continues to play anywhere nearly as well as he has so far, he is almost certain to break Casper's record of $205,168 in a single year.

"I'd like to win the British Open. After ours, I think the British Open is the most important tournament in the world," Trevino said.

"And I'd like to win the Tournament of Champions. Beating all those other guys who have won tournaments would really be something."

Terri Buck: Notre Dame's Latest All-Star

NEW YORK—(NEA)—Luxurious Terri Buck may have had more to do with the changing face of education at Notre Dame than anyone since granite Knute Rockne.

When Terri Buck comes a-prancing onto the football field, long hair and short skirt caught in the wind, beating her pompons to the cheer, cheer for old Notre Dame, she would never be mistaken for Terry Hanratty.

And next fall, senior Terri Buck becomes a full-fledged student at the University of Notre Dame, once the bastion and symbol of all that was hairy-chested about American higher education.

For the past three years she has been a student at all-female St. Mary's College in South Bend, the so-called sister school to Notre Dame. Now, St. Mary's is being absorbed by Notre Dame.

Cheerleader Terri Buck may have been directly responsible for this colossal coed reversal. She has the looks of Loren and, as it turns out, the influence of Montessori.

"I guess it was felt that if they can accept a girl on the football field at Notre Dame, then it would be all right to have them in the classroom, too," said Miss Buck at breakfast in a New York restaurant recently.

It wasn't an overnight thing, to be sure. Only for the last two years have Notre Dammers permitted a soprano to cheer on the field. Football, as the world knows, is Notre Dame's most sacred institution. Before this, the Fighting Irish die-hards believed that a woman's place was in the stands, holding the flask.

Miss Buck admits that she is not the sole influence for the educational upheaval at Notre Dame. The times and Father Theodore Hesburgh, the liberal president of Notre Dame, are mainly responsible. Unquestionably, Miss Buck did indeed become an admired figure by a large segment of the Notre Dame student body. But there were still the Neanderthals.

In one game she got struck on the leg by a thrown egg. "Well," she said, not taking it personally. "The game was getting a little boring, and some of the boys just got a little rowdy."

She is as philosophical about her role as a cheerleader. "I think cheerleading is ridiculous," she said. "I know that shaking a pompon and dancing around is no real accomplishment, nothing to be proud of. And I don't expect a Nobel Prize for it. It's corny. But I have a great time doing it, and I love it."

Miss Buck, a 5-8, 130-pound brunette, became international femme fatale of sorts last year. In one nationally televised game, Andy Sidaris, ABC-TV director for NCAA games, focused on her, well "more times than my wife thought I should have," he said. Newspaper stories followed. So did a call from Screen Gems for a movie audition and an offer to do a television hair commercial.

(And when ABC executives lamented that next season's TV game between Notre Dame and Michigan State, on Oct. 2, will bump against the major leagues' divisional baseball play-offs, ABC sports president Roone Arledge raised a knowing palm. "Yes," he said. "But we have Terri Buck.")

Her picture in the paper produced a strange slew of letters: One from an admirer in Cork, Ireland. Thirty GIs in Vietnam, reading that Terri hopes to be a stewardess upon graduation, offered to fly her over to be their "Coffee, tea or me girl" for a week. And there was the one from a 23-year-old fellow in the South. He wrote:

"Miss Buck, let us be adult about this. I seem to have lost temporarily, control of my faculties. I am writing to tell you, Miss Buck, that on this second day before Christmas, a typical gray December morning in a typical gray lifetime, you stopped my heart."

Shreveport Defeats Arkansas

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Shreveport defeated Arkansas 7-4 in Dixie Association action at Ray Winder Field Wednesday night.

Shreveport lunched into the lead with a grand slam homerun by Larry Hanson in the first inning. The Captains also scored another run in the first inning, prior to the homerun on a walk which forced one runner in.

The Travelers came back in the second inning with four runs in the second inning, but after that they were stopped by the Captains.

The Captains made their next two runs in the sixth and seventh innings.

Jackie Stripling took the loss. Mike Spellman was the winning pitcher.

The Travelers will open a three-game stand against Memphis Thursday night in Memphis.

Donna Caponi Doesn't Enjoy Fame

By D. BYRON YAKE

Associated Press Sports Writer ERIE, Pa. (AP) — Donna Caponi, admitting an inferiority complex, doesn't think of herself as a U.S. Women's Open champion. Nevertheless, she begins defense of that title today at Kahkwa Club.

Miss Caponi has won the

Richey, Taylor Tied

By GEOFFREY MILLER

Associated Press Sports Writer WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — The center court here was set today for the final scene of Open two years in succession, and nobody has ever won it three straight times.

Miss Caponi won only two tournaments in 1970, including the Open. She has no victories in 1971, even though she is fifth on the money list.

Maybe her lack of victories is understandable, for the 26-year-old Miss Caponi says the celebrity image bothers her.

"I want people to think of me as Donna Caponi, professional golfer, but not something above that. Golf isn't my whole life. I guess I don't enjoy fame," she said.

The 72-hole Open is a $33,000 event, with $5,000 going to the winner.

Although short, the 6,306-yard course demands accuracy. It's tree lined, well trapped, and hilly.

Only two golfers—Mickey Wright and Betsy Rawls—have won the Open four times. Both Miss Wright and Miss Rawls are entered in a field of 135 golfers in the Open.

The course record at Kahkwa is 70, set by Mary Lena Faulke in 1959 in the Western Women's Open, won that year by Patty Berg.

an unfinished tennis drama.

The participants were Cliff Richey, the U.S. Davis Cup star from Sarasota, Fla., and Roger Taylor of England, Britain's brightest tennis star. They were tied at two sets all, and 7-7 in the deciding set, when darkness halted play Wednesday.

Richey won the first set 6-2, lost 3-6 and 2-6, but came back to win the fourth set 6-4 to tie the match. After two protests from Taylor, tournament referee Mike Gibson called the match.

Richey knows perfectly well that the Wimbledon fans will be rooting for Taylor, a rugged left-hander who last year toppled Rod Laver of Australia. But if that bothers him, Richey is not showing it.

The tie-breaking scoring system, being used at Wimbledon for the first time this year, doesn't apply in a fifth set, so Richey and Taylor will just have to slug it out the old-fashioned way. The first man to break service will probably advance to the third round.

Richey is the No. 6 seed. Two other Americans, Stan Smith of Pasadena, Calif., and Arthur Ashe of Gum Spring, Va., have already made the third round.

Smith cruised past John Paish of Britain yesterday, 6-1, 6-4, 6-4. Ashe mastered Patrick Proisy of the French Davis Cup team, 6-4, 6-4, 6-4.

Three other prominent American players did not fare as well.

Charles Pasarell of Santurce, P.R., was upset by Adriano Panatta of Italy 6-3, 6-3, 3-6, 6-3, in the men's second round.

Sentimental favorite Pancho

Gonzales was beaten by Pierre Barthes of France, 7-5, 8-9, 3-6, 6-3, 6-4, in a center court duel which lasted over three hours.

Rosemary Casals of San Francisco, No. 4 seed in the women's singles, was beaten 7-5, 6-4 by Kerry Melville, the Australian with the powerful forehand.

In other matches, Rod Laver of Australia, the top seed in the men's singles, bested Ray Moore of South Africa, 6-8, 6-3, 6-2, 7-5, and Tom Gorman of Seattle, the unseeded American who eliminated No. 8 seed Cliff Drysdale of South Africa, beat Ezio di Matteo of Italy, 2-6, 6-2, 6-2, 6-1.

2 U of A Golfers Tie in Tourney

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Two University of Arkansas golfers, Chuck Brownfield and Bill Brown, tied at a two-over-par 72 in the first round of the NCAA Golf Tournament here Wednesday.

William Mosser followed with a 73, Jim Cisne, 74, and William Montgomery, 77. All are from Arkansas.

Y and Z arrived a trifle late for the weekly duplicate. They found that A and B had taken their customary North-South seats.

B, sitting South, offered to move but Z said, "Go ahead and see what you can do. Maybe the cards will run East and West for a change."

B's face lit up when he looked at his first hand. Barring a miracle, he was going to have Y and Z defending against him.

When A raised him to two spades, B went right to game. His cards warranted it. Y, sitting West, opened the queen of diamonds and continued with the five. Z won and returned a low heart. Dummy's queen won the trick and B made the correct lead of the five of spades from dummy.

Z played the king and B won with the ace.

"What fun it is to be declarer," said B. Then he led the deuce of spades and called for the nine from dummy. Z produced the 10. While B made the rest of the tricks for his contract, he knew his score would be close to bottom.

"How was I to know?" moaned B.

"You couldn't," replied Z. "However, if your memory is really good, you may recall making that very play against me in one of Carl Robertson's columns around 1925. What's more, it worked just as well that time."

King's Daughter Makes Debut

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — The 15-year-old daughter of the late Rev. Martin Luther King Jr., Yolanda, has made her stage debut in a interracial production of "The Owl and the Pussycat."

"I dreaded even reading the lines, and though I didn't like the language, I felt the play had something very important to say," she said of her role as a prostitute who falls in love with an aspiring young author.

The two-character play "is really more than a story of one girl and one boy who are different in racial and educational backgrounds," she said.

"The author is trying to portray dramatically that we can all learn from each other black or white, rich or poor, saints or sinners and that we all need each other."

ASU Has Highest Turnover

JONESBORO, Ark. (AP) — Arkansas State University had the highest average turnover in faculty of all state-supported undergraduate colleges and universities in the 10-year period that ended with the 1969-70 year, according to a study.

The commission on Coordination of Higher Educational Finance conducted the study which shows that 9.1 per cent of ASU's teachers resigned during the period.

Arkansas Tech at Russellville had the second highest turnover rate, 8.3 per cent. Arkansas A&M, now the University of Arkansas at Monticello, had the lowest rate—4.2 per cent.

The study deals primarily with the financial problems involved in retaining professors.

In the past five months "I've had no time to relax, no time to stop and enjoy my family as I once did, no time to stop and even collect my thoughts," Bumpers said.

"I used to read—I used to be a ravenous reader—but I don't have an opportunity to do that. Yet, it is just as necessary right now as it used to be that I do it. But I don't have the time."

He said, however, that "I see a little daylight ahead."

In addition to cutting down on his speaking appearances, he said, Bumpers plans to do more work in the more relaxed atmosphere of the governor's mansion in the morning, rather than report to his Capitol office each day at 8 or 8:30 a.m. as he has been doing.

"Once you get in this office here (at the Capitol), with people coming in from three doors, both telephones ringing constantly, it's very difficult to operate," the governor said.

So, he said, he may very well spend more time at the mansion to answer correspondence and catch up on his reading, including studying innumerable reports with which he must become familiar.

In addition to his popularity as a speaker in Arkansas, the governor has been in demand in other states.

Hailed as one of the "new voices" of the South, Bumpers' out-of-state appearances have included a speech to the annual Truman Day Dinner at Kansas City and a panel discussion with Govs. Jimmy Carter of Georgia, Reubin Askew of Florida and John West of South Carolina at a meeting in Atlanta of the L.Q.C. Lamar Society, a group of liberal and moderate Southerners concerned with social and economic issues in the South.

"I think the South is most anxious to create a new image for itself," Bumpers said. "I think that this is true in Arkansas. This is one of the reasons I accepted a lot of speaking engagements outside the state."

"I want desperately to create a new image of Arkansas—not that our image has been that bad. All I'm saying is that we're rapidly becoming a modern state in this nation and I want the other states to know we have a highly stable political climate here as well as a stable people."

The governor said he also wanted the other states to know of the reform legislation that has been passed in Arkansas. He said this included the governmental reorganization and the more progressive income tax adopted by the legislature.

Bumpers has talked of "new attitudes" in the South. He said Bethel A. M. E. Church extend a cordial welcome to the public to hear this great Churchman Sunday morning.

The Pastor and members of

Nixon's Mother Honored

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon headed for Indiana today for the dedication of a marker to be placed near the birthplace of his Quaker mother, Hannah Milhous Nixon.

Scheduled were ceremonies and a speech at the Jennings County courthouse in North Vernon, Ind.

The little Hoosier town was the first stop on a two-day trip to the Midwest that included scheduled speech-making appearances tonight at a retirement dinner in Indianapolis for Purdue University President Frederick Hovde.

Nixon is to attend a conference of retired persons in Chicago Friday morning after an overnight stop at the Continental Plaza Hotel in Chicago.

The Chief Executive accepted the invitation to North Vernon from the 25-member Jennings County High School chapter of the Indiana Junior Historical Society, which is honoring his mother.

The plaque, to be placed on U.S. highway 50 near Butlerville, Ind., bears this historical inscription:

"Hannah Milhous Nixon, mother of President Richard M. Nixon, was born on a farm 4½ miles southeast, to which her grandparents came in 1854. Moved to California in 1897 when she was 12 years old."

The farmhouse where Hannah Milhous was born burned to the ground in a 1968 fire. She died in 1967 at 84.

The President's mother was born March 7, 1885, in San Jacinto, Jennings County, near Butlerville. Her father, Franklin Milhous, was an orchardist. Her mother, Almira Burdge, a schoolteacher, was his second wife.

Indiana was the third stop in America for the Milhous clan. Originally from Germany, they moved first to Ireland, then to the United States, where they settled in Pennsylvania in the late 1720s. They then went to Ohio.

When they left Butlerville, the Milhous family moved to a 10-year-old California community named after the Quaker poet John Greenleaf Whittier.

Texan to Head Cummins

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The Arkansas Gazette reported in Thursday's edition that an employee of the Texas prison system for 10 years has been selected as superintendent of Cummins Prison Farm.

The Gazette said that A. L. Lockhart, 30, the assistant warden of the Huntsville, Tex., unit will report to Cummins July 1.

Earlier this week, the new Correction Commissioner Terrel Don Hutto, also from Texas, had hinted that the Cummins superintendent would come from out of state.

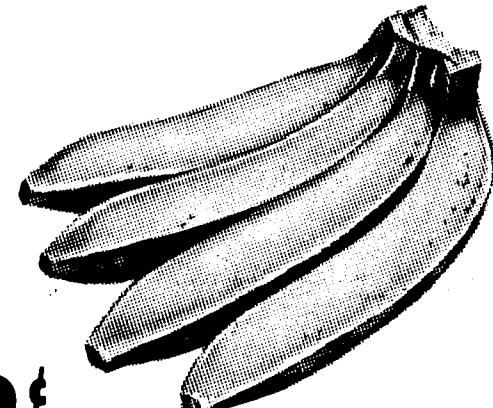

Lockhart will succeed Bill Steed, who resigned as the Cummins superintendent last month.

Lockhart has a bachelor's degree from Sam Houston State University and has done graduate work in corrections at the Institute of Contemporary Corrections and Behavioral Sciences, which is a part of Sam Houston State.

Folks worry about their kids because they know what it's like to be one.

Vet Beats the Addict's Odds

By TOM TIEDE

NEW YORK—(NEA)—By any odds Richie Linder shouldn't be so damned lucky. He should be in prison, like many thousands of dope addicts are, or he should be dead, the victim of overdose or accident, like some 20 junkies a week in this city.

horizon house

ON RECOVERY'S doorstep, former drug addict Richie Linder leans on Horizon House, the "therapeutic community" where he has spent 15 months overcoming his addiction.

But he's alive, free, even lucky.

Why?

His story should be of special interest right now. Richie Linder was born the son of a transit dispatcher in the heart of Brooklyn's Bedford Stuyvesant. It is a mostly black, virtually hopeless neighborhood which may be the worst ghetto in the country. It's a place where kids set fire to dogs to smell the cooking flesh, where men who can't remember their names live in alleys.

Linder spent the first 17 years of his life in Bedford Stuyvesant, black and forgotten. He was not, actually, on the bottom of the human heap; his father was a steady worker, his mother was well-educated, his family stayed together. But the mean streets won out anyway. He ganged about, floundered, snatched purses for nickels — and eventually, naturally, he lost interest in and quit his education.

"I joined the Army then," he says. "And because I was out to prove myself, I even joined the Special Forces (Green Berets). Then I got sent over to Vietnam."

In war it was the same for him as others. There was fear and boredom and not much else. He was assigned to combat, kept for long periods in the field, and was in battle often enough to get a Silver Star for heroism and two Purple Hearts.

But the real war enemy for Linder was not in the field. It was in the steamy shanty huts surrounding his base camp. "Scag Alley," as the places are usually called. The huts are crammed with whores, bad booze — and, miserably, narcotics.

A friend gave Richie Linder his first bit of cocaine. To ease his mind, relieve the tedium. Thereafter, impressed, Linder got his own. He sniffed the stuff initially, then graduated to injection. It was cheap ($5 or less for a day's supply), excellent quality, and seldom adulterated, and within a few months the GI was hooked.

other things on his mind than work. His habit, which was easily satisfied with the purity of Vietnam cocaine, now became a nightmare. The heavily mixed home product was worthless unless taken in very large amounts. Five bags a day soon became 10, then 15, then 20 and 25. "It wasn't long," Linder remembers, "I was spending $125 a day to stay high."

Predictably, he turned to crime to raise the cash. Holdups, street larceny, armed robbery. "I was never a cheap crook," he says, "I always went after big pay-offs." So big, in fact, New York cops began arresting him on sight, trial judges recognized him by reputation and the FBI put him on its list of 10 Most Wanted Men.

It was, he recalls, bad times: "I was arrested 15 times, I think, and convicted twice. I should have been convicted a dozen more. I can remember it was very bad in jail. They'd just toss me in and let me sweat it out by myself. They didn't have any treatment for addicts. I mean it was hell."

It got so bad for Linder that the last time he was released from jail, he decided he could not survive the endless circle of addiction and arrest again. "I had to stop or die." So he joined one of New York's drug therapeutic communities (Horizon House), where for the last 15 months he has undergone a mental metamorphosis.

It hasn't been easy. Therapeutic communities are homes for the worst dregs in society. As such, they are regimented and demanding to a degree no other institution in the United States dares. Addicts must confess their deepest secrets, then join a group effort of rehabilitation. Members must be gracious, responsive, optimistic, self-reliant and enthusiastic — all the things they've never been before. Thus it is only a small percentage of enrollees are able to walk out one day as clean, free men.

Heart Hot Potato Salad

What's a summer of outdoor cooking and picnicking without a reliable, hearty potato salad? A hot potato salad will revive appetites and go well with any meat or fish dish. It also is good cold as a leftover.

HOT POTATO SALAD
2 tablespoons corn oil
1 medium onion, chopped
1/2 cup light corn syrup
1/2 cup vinegar
1 teaspoon salt
Dash pepper
Dash paprika
4 cups hot, diced, boiled potatoes
2 tablespoons chopped parsley

Heat corn oil in skillet, add onion and cook over low heat until tender but not brown. Add light corn syrup, vinegar, salt, pepper and paprika. Bring mixture to boil. Pour over hot potatoes; add parsley and toss lightly. Serve immediately. Makes 6 servings.

Pork Chops Angostura

By AILEEN CLAIRE
NEA Food Editor

Pork continues a good buy and many supermarkets carry specials with 12 to 16 chops per package. If you have freezer space, buy these specials, use what you need now and save the remaining chops for later meals. Pork chops are nutritious and tasty and can be prepared in many ways. Here is a Pork Chop Angostura which features very special seasonings. Serve with rice or noodles and applesauce.

PORK CHOPS ANGOSTURA
6 thick, lean loin pork chops
1 clove garlic, mashed
1 teaspoon paprika
1/2 cup flour
1 teaspoon salt
1/4 cup olive oil
1 large onion, chopped
2 large tomatoes, cored and chopped
2 tablespoons cider vinegar
2 teaspoons Angostura aromatic bitters
1 cup beef broth
1/4 teaspoon crumbled saffron

Rub chops with garlic and paprika. Mix flour and salt. Roll chops in mixture and coat completely. Heat olive oil in a large skillet and brown chops on both sides. Add onion, tomato, vinegar, bitters, beef broth and saffron. Cover and simmer for 35 to 40 minutes or until chops are tender. Serve with rice or noodles. Makes 6 servings.

Senator Questions Practices

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The state Employees Retirement System Board was told Wednesday that certain practices within the system had been questioned by state Sen. Bill H. Walmsley of Batesville, but the board took no action pending a decision by the attorney general.

Walmsley had asked why some retired employees received monthly benefits larger than those who had contributed the same amount to the system.

Walmsley had also asked legislative Auditor Orvel Johnson to request an attorney general's ruling on the legality of B. E. Friday being paid as an attorney and consultant to the system at the same time he was receiving benefits from the system.

Fred Henne, executive director of the system, told the board that Friday had been employed in line with a directive from the board in a meeting in December 1968. He said he believed an attorney general's opinion concerning a 1965 case was on file in 1968 and indicated that the employment of Friday would be legal.

State Auditor Jimmy "Red" Jones, who was re-elected chairman of the system's board said Wednesday that the board would follow the attorney general's opinion when the new opinion is rendered.

earned a B.A. degree in sociology and is eager to show a world of doubters that an addict can be helped. "I made it," he says, hoping everyone hears. "I made it back."

Thinks Time Good to Buy New Stocks

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — This is an excellent time to buy issues of new stocks, says Milton Fisher. Some sound companies with good prospects are offering their shares. The potential for big profits exists.

But beware. A sound foundation in the new issue market often deteriorates suddenly, catching the naive, the greedy and the fools in quicksand. The public's only protection is itself, says Fisher, and sometimes it isn't protection enough.

Nonsense, he said in the book, "How to Make Big Money in the Over The Counter Market." Investments are under your nose if you look, he said. Why invest in a big company whose growth is behind it and about which you know little when you can invest in a local company with its future ahead of it?

Said Fisher; "only the public can reject the junk. Let the issuer and the underwriter eat the garbage. They'll get the message."

How do you reject the junk? By studying the prospectus, which Fisher claims really isn't as formidable as it appears. He gives this advice:

1. Pay particular attention, of course, to the statement of earnings paragraphs. The company must list its five-year financial record, or from its founding if less than five. What are the earnings per share?
2. Determine the price-earnings ratio, or the number of times earnings the stock is selling for. If a new issue comes out at 50 or 100 times earnings and you know you can get seasoned companies at 15 times, you've had your warning.

3. Study the paragraphs on "dilution." Be mighty skeptical of a new issue in which the insider's value per share was one cent and the stock is being offered to the public at $5 a share.

Value per share is not to be confused with cost per share. The insider might have paid very little for his stock, but then he could have built up the value by his contributions to the company. The important figure to look for is the value of the insiders' shares at the time the company goes public.

4. Read carefully the paragraphs labeled "risk factors" or "high risk factors." Amazing things may be found here. The principals might be inexperienced. The company might have a huge deficit. Business might be falling off.

5. You must read the paragraphs labeled "certain transactions." A lot of bodies are buried here. One recent prospectus showed that in January the insiders valued their shares at only 80 cents each. In June they were offering them to the public at $6.

Star Carriers Greeted at Six Flags

Last weekend a group of Star carriers in competition with other carriers won a trip to Six Flags Over Texas at Arlington. Accompanied by Circulation Manager C. M. (Pod) Rogers and Publisher A. H. Washburn the group left on Saturday and returned the following Monday.

China Trade Ban Ends After 20 Yrs.

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Trade between the United States and Mainland China is resuming after a 20-year ban with shipments of paint brush bristles to New York and food delicacies to San Francisco's Chinatown.

The ban, imposed by the U.S. government on Dec. 17, 1950, during the Korean war, was lifted as of June 10.

The 166 cartons of foodstuffs, diverted and trucked here from Vancouver, B.C., were being uncrated today. They are expected to be on sale on Grant Avenue, in the heart of Chinatown, soon.

Included are dried watercress, pickled vegetables and ginger, lotus paste, cakes of fine po ni tea, dried melons, canned cuttle fish and dried dace—a tiny fish.

Customs Director George Brokaw said Wednesday he understood that the "good" shipment was a few days behind a cargo of pig bristles, used for paint brushes, which went through here to New York last week.

"We expect a lot more shipments," said Brokaw.

"After all, Chinatown here is the largest Chinese community in the Western Hemisphere, and they've run out of these things years ago."

"We assume that this shipment, which was in Vancouver, was intended for sale there—where it has been imported all along—and that some enterprising dealer figured he'd divert it here and begin reviving the old trade."

The Chinese community registered no excitement, apparently because in the past 20 years it has learned to use substitute items. Some of the substitutes are grown locally, others imported from Hong Kong, Taiwan and Japan.

"We don't need anything we haven't already got," said Cecilia Chiang, a Peking native who founded the Mandarin restaurant here 11 years ago.

Frazer Wu, a former Nationalist diplomat who has been operating the Huo Kuo House in Berkeley, for nearly a decade.

Retirement Board May Invest Funds

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The State Employees Retirement System Board has taken under advisement a proposal to invest system funds in federally backed, Arkansas-originated home mortgages.

The board instructed Fred E. Henne, executive director of the system, Wednesday to contact officials in 12 states that had invested state pension funds in mortgage securities for their reaction to the program.

Mortgage banker L. E. Lay of Little Rock and Hal Davis of Simmons First National Bank of Pine Bluff attended a board meeting Wednesday to encourage the board to invest in the mortgages.

The men said the mortgages had not been used in the past because the yield was not enough to merit the amount of paperwork. They also said the mortgage instrument cannot be marketed as easily as some other types of investments.

However, Lay said, mortgage securities under the Government National Mortgage Association (GNMA) does not have the paperwork or marketability problems associated with the usual mortgage.

Under the program, a mortgagee may create a "pool" or mortgages, the minimum required amount being $2 million, and may "sell" all or parts—in amounts not to be less than $25,000—of the pool to investors.

The arrangement reduces the paperwork involved since the buyer gets a certificate "backed by a whole stack of mortgages" and does not have to actually handle the mortgages in question, Lay said.

The mortgages would be kept by a bank.

Charles D. Matthews, a North Little Rock attorney, accompanied Lay to the meeting.

To Build Road to Religious Site

EUREKA SPRINGS, Ark. (AP)—Gerald L. K. Smith said Wednesday that Carroll County Judge Arthur Carter and the county Road Commission had agreed to build a new road to Smith's religious projects near here.

He said the road will begin at U.S. 62, south of Smith's property and will bypass the dangerous curves of the old road. Transportation Sec. John Volpe vetoed a $250,000 appropriation for the road, which would have been built with federal money.

The road will lead to the religious projects of the Elma M. Smith Foundation, named for Smith's wife.

One Killed, 16 Trapped in Tunnel

LOS ANGELES (AP) — At least one workman was killed and 16 others trapped early today when an explosion ripped through an underground water tunnel, city fire officials said.

A department spokesman said firemen lowered into the tunnel found one body before they were driven out by heat and intense smoke which isolated the workers inside the tunnel.

The spokesman said there was immediate danger of suffocation because air vents into the tunnel had been destroyed by the blast, believed caused by natural gas, accidentally ignited by the workers.

Firemen entered the tunnel from one of the wrecked ventilating shafts and reported thick, choking smoke filled the tunnel, which is 18 feet in diameter.

The men are about two miles inside the five mile long tunnel, which is 160 feet underground and under construction in suburban Sylmar.

The explosion was the second in two days in the tunnel. Four workmen were burned on the hands, arms and faces in a smaller blast early Wednesday at about the same location. One was hospitalized in satisfactory condition.

Fire officials believed both explosions were caused by methane gas ignited by a welder's torch. The tunnel is being built as part of a system for carrying water from Northern California to the Los Angeles area.

Session May Be Called

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — An agreement reached Wednesday by the state Board of Correction and the Board of Trustees of the Arkansas School for the Deaf apparently hinges on Gov. Dale Bumpers calling a special legislative session.

The two groups agreed that the department could use a Deaf School building as a women's reformatory, if the Deaf School were to get a new building.

Henley Denies Petitions

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Federal Judge J. Smith Henley has denied two handwritten petitions for writs of habeas corpus from Robert Courtney of Lepanto.

Courtney, who is serving a 12-year sentence for burglary and grand larceny from Poinsett County, has made several attempts at escape and is now being held in the maximum security unit.

Courtney said in his first writ that his "good time" had not been properly calculated and he should have been released now. He has been in prison since 1963.

In the second writ, he said he had been denied the services of a doctor and dentist since he had been in the maximum security unit.

Henley denied both writs Tuesday and Wednesday saying that the court was not without sympathy. However, Henley said that Courtney had not exhausted all possible remedies in the state courts.

Henley said the court's sympathy was in the keeping of inmate records. He said with trusty guards keeping the records it was difficult sometimes to come to "any intelligent conclusion as to when the petitioner was entitled to be released."

Henley said after much search it was determined that Courtney should have been released May 19. But, Henley noted that Courtney and another prisoner had attempted to escape May 18.

Courtney was then put in isolation and had his "good time" cut back. Henley also said that during this time prison authorities reported that Courtney had done considerable damage to his cell.

Henley said Courtney had "no one but himself to blame" for still being in prison.

The cost of the new building, was placed at $750,000, which would have to be appropriated by the legislature.

"A special session is underneath the whole thing," said John Haley, chairman of the Correction Board.

The building is now being used by about 60 students.

Terrell Don Hutton, correction commissioner, said about 45 women inmates would be moved from Cummins Prison Farm to Little Rock if the agreement is completed.

The legislature appropriated $300,000 earlier this year for a women's reformatory, but Haley said the funds would be returned to the state if the proposal is approved.

Bumpers appeared at the meeting and said he supported the proposal.

"I'm no penologist, but it seems like a very fine facility and a facility we can use now," he said. "It looks like a golden opportunity."

Witness Tells About UMW Slayings

WASHINGTON, Pa. (AP) — Despite a guilty plea to murder charges and a detailed statement from a key defendant, authorities say their investigation into the 1969 slayings of United Mine Workers insurgent Joseph A. "Jock" Yablonski and his wife and daughter is far from closed.

"The FBI has been looking, is looking and will continue to look for where the money came from to finance these slayings," said Thomas Henderson, a U.S. Justice Department lawyer, after Claude E. Vealey entered his guilty plea Wednesday in Washington County Common Pleas Court.

In a 15-page, 3,500-word statement that was read after the plea, Vealey said he and two accomplices were paid a total of $5,200 by a man he knew only as "Tony" to execute the killings. Vealey indicated that he never saw "Tony," that the killings and payment were arranged by a go-between.

The two key questions remained after the statement: Tony's full identity and his motive for wanting Yablonski killed.

In Washington, a spokesman for the United Mine Workers said there was no connection between the Tony in Vealey's statement and UMW President W. A. "Tony" Boyle, who defeated Yablonski for the union presidency after a bitter campaign that ended three weeks before the Yablonski murders.

Neither Henderson, who was assigned to them in early 1970, nor special state prosecutor Richard Sprague would comment when asked whether they knew Tony's full identity.

Sprague, however, said it was conceivable there would be more arrests. He called Vealey's plea and statement, delivered Wednesday but given to the FBI almost immediately after Vealey's arrest in January 1970 "just the first step up the ladder."

"We have four others to prosecute," Sprague said, "and it could be more." Four persons besides Vealey are charged in the Yablonski slayings.

Some sources said authorities already had investigated three and perhaps more "Tonys," and that there was nothing in any of their backgrounds tying them to the case.

News of Vealey's plea and statement spread slowly through the rich soft coal fields of Appalachia.

In Charleston, W. Va., Dr. I. E. Buff, a physician who has campaigned for UMW reform and better mine safety and improved black lung benefits, said:

"There is someone with a great deal of intelligence that masterminded the job. There is someone with a great deal of money that is also implicated. That's who we should get."

Yablonski's sons Kenneth and Joseph, both sat only a few feet from Vealey as his statement was read into the record by an FBI agent in the hushed Washington County courtroom.

Anguish gathered in the eyes of both as Vealey's words told of how he and his accomplices stalked Yablonski for months before the slayings, and of how they finally broke into his stately, flagstone home in nearby Clarksville and pumped bullet after bullet into their victims from bedroom doorways. The bodies were found Dec. 31, 1969.

In other developments:

—Security, though extremely tight during Vealey's courtroom appearance, decreased Wednesday night at the Washington County Jail, where Vealey was being held earlier in a specially constructed, closely guarded maximum security area. That led to speculation that he might have been transferred to another penal institution, but local authorities declined to answer inquiries.

—Vealey's coattorney, William C. Hart, said his client's guilty plea was designed to help him escape the electric chair.

—Elmer Brown, Yablonski's running mate in the latter's unsuccessful 1969 bid to unseat Boyle, said he believed there were more persons and more money involved in the slayings than Vealey indicated.
